Well as April rains brings May flowers we, ought to have plenty of flowers this year. As we look at what God is doing to our landscapes and the hills around, we can see that all the destruction that we had in January and February still is set off by the renewing of the landscape.

When we think of May, we think of Mothers day. The day that is set aside to honor the one person that gave us birth. As I think of my mother I see someone that is loving and caring and willing to show us how God wants us to live our lives everyday. In the past year, we lost my dad. When I see how mom has held her head high and continued on in the works that dad was performing, I see what a mom and wife are to serve their Lord. She stills visits the sick that she did with dad and even after dad wasn't able. She is always in church. This is where she gets her strength to carry on. She is a loving mom and always there when we, her children need her. Mom is one that truly shows God in her life. I know that she isn't the only one that is this way, and that is what Mothers day is all about. If you have your mother please, tell her just how much that she really means to you and do something extra special for her. If you don't have your mother this mothers day, bring all the wonderful memories of her back up and be proud of the one God gave you.

God Bless all the mothers the Mothers Day.
